

Boulder Creek Engineering Ends Production

After almost 14 years in business, Boulder Creek Engineering, LLC is ending production of all products on March 13, 2023.

As many customers and potential customers know, we have been unable to obtain key components for most of our products in many months. I am sure this announcement is disappointing.

We still have a small number of RollBy OnBoard Speedometers. Please visit our website for ordering if you are interested.

Effective immediately, we are also changing our telephone number and mail address. Our website and email addresses remain unchanged. Please see our website for details.

Boulder Creek Engineering will continue to repair all products. We will continue to honor our 1-year limited warranty for all products. Please contact us through our website if you need a warranty repair.

Beyond the warranty period, our products can often be repaired for little cost – we have been able to repair products that are over 10 years old. Please contact us through our website if you need an after-warranty repair.

I personally have greatly enjoyed designing, manufacturing, and selling advanced model railroad electronics that add realism to model railroad operations. Your support and feedback has often made our day. I thank you all!
